

A new national survey by JD Power and Associates just found that trust in Medicare Advantage plans (private insurance plans that take the place of traditional Medicare) has dropped sharply this year. Confusion over coverage, higher costs, and denied claims are leaving too many seniors frustrated and without the care they need.

I've seen this firsthand as a nurse, and I've heard it across IL-15 on my Listening Tour. From Paris to Mattoon to Champaign, families tell me they're struggling with confusing networks, price hikes, and prescriptions they can't afford.

That's why protecting the Inflation Reduction Act (IRA) matters more than ever. It capped insulin costs, gave Medicare the power to negotiate lower drug prices, and put money back in working families' pockets. For us, that isn't politics, it's medicine in the cabinet, food on the table, and peace of mind for our seniors.

But Mary Miller voted against the IRA, and she's working to roll back these protections, even as trust in our healthcare system is plummeting. From my perspective as a nurse, that's not just bad policy, it's dangerous.

If I'm elected, I'll fight to protect these savings, push for more transparency in Medicare Advantage, and make healthcare simpler, clearer, and more affordable for every family in Central Illinois.

Thank you for being part of this movement. Together, we can protect our families and restore trust in healthcare.
